Rome-London Tailoring Link is Launched

★ This is how Hector Powe, Ltd., announced their "Rome-London reciprocal tailoring service" in the window of their Regent-street, London, W., shop (details of the scheme were published in MEN'S WEAR last week). The card in the front of the window says that there will be regular exchange visits of Hector Powe representatives to Rome and of Mr. Angelo Litrico, of Rome, to the Regent-street shop, "to serve those who are interested in Italian styling." Among the Litrico styles shown in the window, is an overcoat with an Astrakhan collar and another featuring a second, flapped pocket above the usual one on the right hand side. The jacket of a suit has a ticket pocket above the right flapped pocket, matching in shape and stitching the normal breast pocket.
